The Brooklyns didn't stand on ceremony with the Cardinals yesterday, but began winning right off the reel. Three St. Louis, pitchers tried to stop the Brooklyns' onslaught, two of them with no success. First Rhodes got his bumps, then Higgins. More shodes got his bumps, then Higgins. More did all right when he went to the mound, but by that time the Brooklyns didn't care. They had ten runs. The Cardinals hit Bell some in the last four innings and made four runs, but the Brooklyn pitcher was effective when he had to be. Jordan, a very Samson of a slugger, clouted for a double and a triple and batted in three runs. Both of these hits were made off Rhodes. TURFMEN ENCOURAGED OVER THE PROSPECT OF RACING. Under Present Conditions It Is Believed the Tracks Will Increase Number of Days for Sport-Benefits Already

Manifest-Plan to Establish Credit

It was freely predicted by turfmen yester. day that if the public continues to pay long before the various associations decide have sport at least five days a week instead of three as scheduled for the present Turfmen are in high spirits just now, and unexpectedly so too. They said yesterday that the opening at the big Queens track was a revelation to them, for they had not forgotten the windup at Jamaica last November, when less than 200 persons paid admission on the last day. They also declared that they did not believe so many persons not imbued with the betting fever were interested in the welfare of the sport, and they pointed to the fact that more than 8,500 persons actually paid admission to the track on Thursday as sufficient proof that with present conditions unchanged racing can be conducted on the Jockey Club's tracks this year without financial loss. It can be said that the leading members of the Jockey Club and the attorneys who have made a successful fight to secure free-dom of action for racegoers are highly gratified over the outlook. That the turf governors will strain a point to maintain conditions as they existed on Thursday goes without saying. Before the racing began on that day the plan evolved was purely experimental, but it achieved so much suc ess that the future of racing in this country is brighter now than at any time since adverse legislation loomed up from the Atlantic to the Pacific. By enforcing the law as interpreted by the courts the Jockey ne further trouble and that the racing public, gaining confidence, will slowly but surely come back in large and profitable

It is apparent already that the new surely come back in large and profitable numbers.

It is apparent already that me new state of affairs regarding speculation will be of inestimable benefit to racing. The sure thing gamblers, big and little, have been curbed to a marked degree. It is no longer possible for the impecunious element to bet beyond their mesms. The ragtag and bobtail of the turf, which was always a detriment, has disappeared. The touts, pikers, sharpers and fake tipsters who once invested the racecourses have been wiped out. From the general wreck of last year the sport has arisen cleaner and better than ever, it is believed. It is now a game which may be enjoyed from strictly a sporting standpoint, with betting very much of a side issue. This has been the aim of the Jockey Club all along and it has met with the apparent indorsement of that portion of the public which enjoys a thrilling horse race and the amusement of making comparatively small wagers on the results.

Upon the shoulders of persons who were formerly called "bookmakers" has fallen much of the responsibility. It is up to them, turfmen say, to obey the law in all of its requirements and to refrain from anything that may result in possible in accordance with a mental calculation as to the respective merits of the horses, and it is also within the law to record bets in one's head. Governed by these conditions it is conceded that so-called "memory brokers" can operate without fear of arrest and prosecution, but at the same time it is an accepted fact that before long some scheme must be devised that will protect the "brokers" against unscrupulous individuals who are unwilling to settle ornal losses. It was a matter for discussion among several well known layers yesterday as to the best method to pursue, and it was hinted that in due time clients would be compelled to establish credit by posting a certain amount of money with their "brokers" before going to the track, If such an arrangement should be made it would all be done privately, so that while no money would pass ins the "brokers" would be well guaranteed against loss.

The revival of racing, however, is in its infancy, and everybody interested in the future of the sport is prepared to move slowly. Simply because the opening day of the local season was an unexpected success must not be taken to mean that the fight has been won, say prominent turfmen, but as time passes and racegoers conform to conditions that are unavoidable and necessary it is believed that all will go well. It is an uphill fight, successfully begun, but there are many angles which must be turned before racing can be permanently established on a paying basis.

The reduction of purses, forced by the passage of the new law, is well illustrated in the case of John E. Madden. On Thursday Madden's horses won two races, finished second twice and third twice, yet the master of Hamburg Place picked up only $1,610 as his share of the spoils. Lady Bedford and Newmarket, the winners, earned $380 and $350 respectively. Fayette and Hampton Court, the seconds, got $750 and $70, while Miss Kearney and Naughty Boy, who ran third, each won $30 for their owner. A year ago similar successes in these races would have netted a total of more than $5,000. The $5,000 guaranteed for the Metropolitan Handicap was drawn from the $110,000 subscription fund raised not long ago by the Association of Breeders and Owners. Entrance and starting fees amounted to $1,825, so that the race cost the Breeders and Owners just $3,175. The reduction of purses, forced by the

Madden says he will not find it possible to go to England to see Sir Martin run in the Derby. His big racing stable at Belmont Park commands his undivided attention. Fayette, who ran a bang up race in the Metropolitan, will be a starter in both the Withers and Belmont stakes and his owner does not see how he can suffer defeat

When Hugo Kelly and Bill Papke enter the ring at Colma this afternoon for their forty-five round mill at the middleweight limit the betting will probably be close to even money. Reports from the training camps of these pugilists have been to the effect that both are fit and confident. The winner will challenge Stanley Ketchel to fight for the middleweight title, but as Ketchel is now a heavyweight he will probably decline and Jack (Twin) Suilivan will have the call. Ketchel knocked Kelly out in three rounds in November. Kelly is 26 years old, is 5 feet 8 inches tall and has been in the ring for ten years. He has met Papke in three mills, losing a decision in ten rounds and boxing two draws, one of ten and the other of twenty-five rounds. Papke is 23 years old and stands 5 feet 9 inches in his socks. He is a harder hitter than Kelly, but the latter possesses more science.

inches in his socks. He is a harder hitter than Kelly, but the latter possesses more science.

Another important fight will be decided in Paris, France, to-night when Sandy Ferguson, white, of Boston and Joe Jeannette, colored, of this city will meet in a twenty round bout. These heavyweights are old rivals. They me tin Boston last September and Ferguson got a decision at the end of twelve rounds. At that time Ferguson was not in his present excellent condition, so that on "puglistic dope" he is expected to beat the negro to-night, if the go is on the level. Jeannette recently stopped Sam MoVey, the burly colored heavyweight, in forty-nine rounds in Paris and will enter the ring with a loyal following among Frenchmen. He has heoked up with Jack Johnson in six bouts, three with no decision, losing one on a foul in two rounds and another on points in fifteen and also boxing a ten round draw. Jeannette has tackled Sam Langford on five occasions, getting a decision in eight rounds, losing on points in fifteen rounds, boxing two twelve round draws and getting the worst of a six. round go in this city, in which no decision was rendered. Ferguson will weigh 210 pounds and Jeannette about 190. Langford will be at the ringside to challenge the winner for a fight to a finish, as he expects to stop Iron Hague, the English heavy-weight champion, decisively when they meet in London on the night of May 24.

Why can't we buck up? The principal reason is because we don't try hard enough. If we are only half as large as Yale we must try twice as hard in order to have as good a team. Track athletics here have been out of popular interest. The men have now, however, put us well up in this branch of sport and the management has been most thorough and energetic.

"I don't believe there was anybody in that stand on Saturday who did not feel sure that we had eight or more points undeveloped in this university. The football men would be invaluable in the weights if they would condescend and further would be in better condition for the fall season. Not much time is necessary, so this objection is only that of the laxy man who 'lets his legs hang heavy.' The fact that a man is a beginner is no excuse, for all but one of our winners of first places on Saturday were developed in Princeton.

"Where is the Princeton spirit we heard about at our short trousers age? There's not much of it around. Here is a point winner in last year's intercollegiates too indifferent and too lazy either to practise or to train. Here's another idler, who might have placed in Saturday's quarter. Here are two more stars who flunk midyear's. Where are their friends, who cannot impress upon them the importance they bear to team mates and the college? Shall we never have a better track team?"

AERONAUTIC NEWS.

St. Louis Arranging Contests for Centennial Week in October. L. D. Dozier, president of the Aero conference with inventors soliciting en-tries for an aero-nautical contest to be held in St. Louis next October during the centennial celebration week. Mr. Dozler said that he is negotiating with the Wright brothers for the purchase of an seroplane with the understanding that one of the brothers give a demonstration at the exhibition. He said the only difficulty is that the Wrights have planned to return to Europe in September and it is a matter of inducing them to remain over longer.

The St. Louis Club already has grounds and owns two spherical balloons, one of 80,000 cubic feet capacity and one of 40,000. The contest committee will offer three cups and $3,000 in cash prizes to be distributed for spherical balloon, dirigible balloon and aeroplane races. with the understanding that one of the

"Keep your eyes on the Boston Red Sox!"
That is the slogan all over the American League circuit. The ease with which the Beanesters trimmed the Cievelands in three Branch and the Cievelands in three Branch and the Cievelands in three Branch and the Cievelands in the Hub by the ears. As the Highlanders broke even in the recent series with the Red Sox in this city, the followers of Stallings's men have no reason to lose heart because of the drubbings administered by the heavy hitting Detroits.

With Mathewson, Wiltse, Marquard, Amee and Raymond at their best and the Giants playing steady, consistent ball bed hind them it begins to look as if all the other National League teams will be extended to the limit to keep the New Yorks. Because of the showing of the Chicago Cubs here this week it is safe to assume that President Charles Webs Murphy will soon have Catcher John Kling in line. Kling asys it is simply a question of money with him, and the Windy City rooters are already the wants it.

Armstrong, who will be paired as named. The prominence of young Lord pleased his friends. He has been for three years champlon of the Brooklyn-Forest Park Golf Club and learned the game on the public links, but in style is good enough for Scotland. Six sixteens and as many beaten eights were in the hunt for golfing glory eights were in the hunt for golfing glory and A. H. Pogson, head of the tournament committee, was as busy as a beaver in keeping the taily.

Starting out with P. W. Kendall, a former States Island and Deal champion who has the driving power of a Hercules, it was generally fancied that Lord had met his fate. Kendall, as it happened, was off in direction and the distance gained from the tee did him no good. An effective all around golfer of pleasing methods, the Forest Park youth had the match in command throughout. Three up at the turn, Lord won by 5 up and 3 to play. Kendall needed 85, while Lord's strokes were:

In the morning also S. D. Bowers of Bridgeport had a good round with J. D. Foot. He was on his game, playing particularly well near and on the greens, so that Foot fell victim on the fifteenth hole Foot won the 145 yard hole in 2, the fifth and was then 1 up. Bowers did 78.

B. S. Bottome accounted for Frank Sears in this round, doing 77, the best stroke score. His one really poor shot was a sciaffed approach on the fourteenth hole. W. G. Hoople beat William Van Loan on the proach on the fourteenth hole. W. G. Hoople beat William Van Loan on the twenty-third after saving himself by holing on the twenty-second from off the green. J. B. Eddleman also won an extra hole match, W. V. Conover doing an 80, won from C. West Tainter, and A. F. Kammer put out E. L. Schoffeld, Jr., of Wee Burn. H. E. Armstrong, medallist on Thursday with 75, turned the tables on J. W. McMenamy, who beat him in the Staten Island championship. Armstrong won by 2 up, doing 80 to McMensmy's 82.

Bifted down to four matches, the clubhouse onlookers had exciting occupation in trying to pick the afternoon winners in the Fox Hills cup race. Bowers golfed with the energy of the old St. Andrews days on the Sawmill road and punished Hoople, who was leg weary from the protracted morning contest, by 6 and 5. Bowers had the second in 3 and was out in 38, doing the remaining holes in even 4s. This hole is 411 yards, and R. F. Rode of Dunwoodle holed in 3 twice. Kammer-did 82 and put out Conover of Deal, who was off on his mashie shots. He said change from the flat Deal course to one of hills and hollows was the cause of the trouble. Armstrong kept up his consistent golding and was often brilliant. He went out in 59 and then averaged 45, beating Eddleman by 5 and 4. Forest Park's champion had Bottome as opponent and won by 2 up. Lord's strokes reveal he is not upset by being in private club company. They were:

Conspicuous in the second cup set were G. E. Morse of Rutland, Vt., who beat P. W. Pogson, and J. B. Naething, an interscholastic golfer a decade ago and now back to regain his old form. Bert T. Allen, W. E. Conklyn and Charles Presbrey also went through with success. J. A. Janin, H. O. Parsons, Dr. Haight and A. H. Thomas, who beat W. C. Freeman on an extra hole, remain for the third cup. who beat W. C. Freeman remain for the third cup. The summaries:

1909 CRICKET OUTLOOK.

Arrangements Under Way for Visit From Irish-English Combination.

All indications point to 1909 being an unusually successful cricket season York and vicinity. Saturday was sched-uled as opening day by all the metropolitan clubs, and the game will be played throughout the summer on about fifteen wickets in the neighborhood over which the Metropolitan District Cricket League has control As a final windup local anthusiasts will witness at least one international contest as arrangements are well under way for a visit from a team of English or Irish players. The Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia will bring over the team, three matches to be played in the Quaker City and one each in New York and Toronto.

The championship series of the Metro-politan League should be productive of a keen battle for supremacy this season, several clubs appearing to be almost equal in playing strength, while additions to the membership of last year's tailenders will tend to make the league a better balanced organization than in recent years.

Of the clubs which contested for the pen ant in 1908 only one has dropped out, while the Staten Island club, which played independently last year, has again entered the lists with practically the same eleven that has captured the flag so often since the league was organized in 1890. M. R. Cobb, whose name appears six times during that period as the champion batsman and seven times as the leading bowler, has been elected captain of the Staten Islanders, with R. W. R. Powell vice-captain. It is expected that C. H. Clarke, E. H. L. Steinthal, F. F. Kelly, C. H. E. Griffiths, F. A. W. Irsland, P. Mew and Archie Gunn will be available, while much is expected of R. Raughton, who showed considerable promise last season.

Columbia Oval, champions of 1908, will fight every inch of the way, for in addition to the eleven which did so well last summer they have enrolled as members P. C. Goldingham, a splendid run getter, from Canada: Herman Meyers, who comes with a reputation from Bermuda, and F. J. Prendergast, who has been identified for a long time with the Manhattan club. Other recruits are G. Stedman and H. Lohmer, both reliable men on the field.

Brooklyn has been strengthened considerably by the return of C. A. Worm, who performed vallantly with bat and ball before going to the West Indies. Another reappearance is that of S. B. Standfast, a sterling cricketer, who has been elected captain this year. He will have with him on the field the Poyer brothers, G. Macpherson, A. Brown, A. S. Durrant, A. Lovell and H. Rushton, with occasional help from W. F. Jackson, they crescent captain.

A big improvement was shown last year by the Manhattans, whose standing in the percentage table was higher than it had been in ten years. They received substantial help from several new members who unfortunately are not with them this season. They have lost F. F. Kelly, J. W. Hayman, F. J. Prendergast and A. Gunn, while H. A. Oxenham, whose fast bowling was so destructive in 1908, is an absentee and may not be found in the ranks. The new men include J. H. Goodman, C. E. Foster, G. E. Taylor and M. Dunne.

Kings county has the Staten Island club, which played independently last year, has again entered the

Ralph E. Slaven's Yacht.

The Alfredine IV., which is being built at Seabury & Co.'s yards, Morris Heights, for Ralph E. Slaven, will be ready for launching in about three weeks. This craft was designed by Charles L. Seabury and is 99 feet long, 14 feet beam and 4 feet draught. The hull is planked with long leaf yellow pine and there are seven steel watertight bulkheads. Below the water line the stern is of the flat or torpedo type. In the house is of the flat or torpedo type. In the house on the forward deck is the dining saloon, and the galley is at the after end. Below there is a stateroom for the officers, and aft of the machinery are the owner's quarters. There is one large stateroom the full width of the yacht which is fitted with a double brass bedstead, divan, &c. This room opens into a passageway on the port side of which is a bathroom and on the starboard side another stateroom. Further aft is a double stateroom. This yacht is to be driven by two Speedway motors of 150 horse-power each. Mr. Slaven is also having a launch 30 feet long built which is to make thirty miles an hour.

oxenham, whose fast bowling was so destructive in 1908, is an absentee and may not be found in the ranks. The new men include J. H. Goodman, C. E. Foster, G. E. Taylor and M. Dunne.

Kings county has organized with a new captain in J. D. Maclennan, with J. P. Stuart vice-captain. The former generally has been in the van among the club's bowlers, and Stuart is an uncommonly good batsman. The bowling question again looms up seriously, and without a couple of new trundlers who can be depended upon the club hardly can be expected to improve its standing.

Bensonhurst probably will do better than last year, when they finished last in the league series. They possess some good talent with the ball, including G. H. Wyse, J. M. Christie, F. S. Franklyn and C. E. Marshall are capable men and will make their mark with the willow.

The Prospect Park team has been strengthened by the addition of F. Michaelowski, A. Norris, R. Hallahan, D. Cheyne, W. A. Huggins, E. F. Gresham and J. S. Parkes, while W. P. Charles is once more the leader on the field, with G. W. Bliss vice captain.
